

I would like to take a moment to express my outrage over the abuse we put up as consumers. The constant phone calls from people is absurd. I don't want people calling me trying to sell me whatever the latest sales pitch. I don't even want it from companies I currently do business with. Don't you think that if there was something I was already looking for I would call them? Isn't it apparent by the vast number of people who signed up on the do not call list that we don't want this type of harrassment? You would be doing a great disservice to the community by allowing the "established business relationship" to be invoked.
